NEARLY A FIRE.—The other evening an accident occured at the residence of L. D. Williams, book keeper for the firm of Mendel, Booth & Co., which destroyed some property and caused considerable trouble in his household. Mr. Williams is in the habit of leaving a lamp burning through the night. Upon the night in question the lamp was left burning as usual, and Mrs. Williams thinking that the light shone too brightly in the face of her children stood a pillow on end to act as a shade. During the night the pillow fell upon the lamp and caught fire, and it was not without much trouble that it was extinguished, Mrs. Williams severely burning her hands in the operation.
